Musonic brotherhood had charge of the escort and interment ceremonies. The procession moved at great length to Mt. Wood, where the body was deposited in the family yault. The following Provisions had also been made at Fowler M A ited in the family vault. The following tribute to the memory of Capt. List we take from the river news editorial in the Cincinnati Commercial of Saturday

It is our sad and melancholy duty to record the untimely death of Capt. John List, an old and prominent citizen of Wheeling. On Thursday night, a squad of the proyost guard were in pursuit. Of an escaped soldier, in Wheeling, when an order was given to fire, which was obeyed by one of the soldiers, the ball taking effect in the thigh of Capt. List died in about an hour after receiving the foot of Major McPhail, producing a painful flesh wound. Capt. List died in about an hour after receiving the wound. We have known Capt. John List intimately during the past twenty years. He was a noble, whole-souled, generous citizen, an enterprising business man and a kind and affectionate husband and father. He has been identified with river and mercantile interests over twenty years, in the capacity of clerk, commander and owner of steamboat stock, and was a partner in the well-known house of List, Morrison & Co., Wheeling, at the time of his death. He was one of the most indefatigable and enterprising business men of Wheeling, and was extensively known and highly esteemed all along the line of our great rivers. There was a general gloom in river circles when the intelligence of his sudden death was received by telegraph here yesterday. The colors of the steamers were displayed at half-mast in respect to the memory of the deceased.

The magistrates elected in most of the townships are men who only occasionally act in their official capacity, having no regular office, and not expecting to give their attention to this kind of business. Under the present arrangement it becomes necessary for us to have for justices of the peace such men as will devote their attention. We were informed that he would leave to the business pertaining to their office, and we presume one object in view in thus framing the law for the List yesterday evening.

THE SYMPTOMS:

They generally appear are at first very slight. Persons find they have a cold, that they have frequent attacks, and are more sensitive to the changes of temperature. In this condition, the nose may be dry, or a slight discharge, thin and acrid, afterwards becoming thick and adhesive. As the discase becomes chronic, the discharges are increased in quantity and changed in quality; they are now thick and heavy, and are hawked or coughed off. The secretions are oftensive, causing a bad breath; the voice is thick and hasal, the eyes are weak; the sense of the smell is lessened or destroyed; deafness frequently takes place. Another common and important symtom of Catarrh is that the person is obliged to clear his throat in the morning of a thick or slimy mucus, which has fallen down from the head during the right. When this takes place the person may be sure that his disease is on its way to the lungs, and should lose no time in arresting it.

The above are but few of the many Catarrh Symptoms.
